From the Antwerp Courant, dated July 16.

Madrid, June 22.

THE Portugueſe having without Oppoſition poſſeſſ'd themſelves of Salamanca, Valladolid, Avila, and Segovia, came and encamp'd the 20th Inſtant at Night at Puerto de Guadarama 6 Leagues from hence, waiting the coming up of their Artillery and Baggage. On Intelligence of it, King Philip with ſome Grantees and the French Ambaſſador, left this City Yeſterday, and took the Road to Burgos for Navarre. The Queen is gone the ſame way for Pampelona, where ſhe was expected the 27th of this Month. The Enemy's Army commanded by my Lord Galway is now encamp'd at Guadarama, but is continually expected here. The Duke of Berwick with his Body of Troops is likewiſe gone towards Burgos, to wait for the Troops that come from France; 'tis ſaid the latter, by hard Marches and Deſertion are reduc'd to 3000 Men, ſo that at beſt King Philip cannot make up an Army of more than 14 or 15000 Men, which is much too weak to reſtore his Affairs. The 18th Inſtant King Charles III. was advanc'd to Tervel, where the Earl of Peterborow was expected the next Day with the Troops from Catalonia, in order to proceed on hither. All Valencia and moſt of the Towns of Arragon have declar'd for King Charles, Saragoſſa excepted, which doubtleſs will ſoon do like the reſt. Not one Frenchman is left in this City.

From the Paris Letter, dated July 12.

Paris, July 12. When the King and Queen left Madrid, the Portugueſe were at Guadarama between Segovia and the Uſcurial; and the Road being very rough, they had ſet Men to work to even it, for the more commodious Paſſage of their Artillery and Baggage. The Queen ſet out 2 Days before the King, taking the Road of Guadalaxara, accompanied by the Councils, ſeveral Grantees and Ladies of the Court, and guarded by 200 Men of the King's Guards and 100 French Horſe. They write from Pampelona, that the King was expected that Way, with the Duke of Berwick's Army, there to wait for other Troops. The Van of 30 Battalions that are returning from Catalonia, was to arrive the 24th at St. Jean Pied de pore. Some Letters tell us, that 600 Portugueſe Horſe approaching Madrid, the Magiſtrates brought out the Keys to them; but notwithstanding that Submission the People cried out long live Philip V. declar'd loudly they would acknowledge no other Prince for their King, and demanded Arms to defend themſelves.

We have no News of the Archduke; there is no more talk of him than if there were no ſuch Perſon in Catalonia; which makes it believ'd he is indiſpoſ'd and cannot appear in Publick.

P.S. We are aſſur'd the Queen of Spain is at Burgos, not at Pampelona, and that the King is within 11 or 12 Leagues of Madrid, into which the Enemy are enter'd to the Number of 16000 Men, very much ſign'd.

From the Amsterdam Courant, dated July 17.

Paris, July 12. M. Vaſſee, Gentleman of the Bed-Chamber to the King of Spain, arriv'd here laſt Night; 'tis ſurmiſ'd he has brought with him the Jewels of the Crown of Spain. We are inform'd, that the Spaniſh Troops which were in the Duke of Berwick's Army, are gone over to the Enemy, ſo that his Army is diminſh'd to 7 or 8000 Men; that the Portugueſe Army arriv'd at Madrid the 26th; that the 27th King Charles III. enter'd that City, and was proclaim'd King, the People giving all Demonſtrations of Joy; and that the Catalonians have beſieg'd Jaca, and will hinder the French Troops from advancing that Way; ſo that King Philip's Affairs are in a deſperate Condition. Several new Regiments are ſent towards Normandy, it being apprehended the Enemy will make a Deſcent on that Coaſt, and incite the People to an Inſurrection againſt the King, by Promiſing to maintain them in a State of Liberty like what Men enjoy in England and Holland. The Marſhal de Villeroy has likewiſe ſent 3 Regiments thither. It has been ſignified to the Inhabitants of the Towns of Verſailles, St. Germans, and Fontainebleau, that for the future they muſt like others pay the Tailles from which they have hitherto been privileg'd; but 'tis believ'd they will make a Free-Fiſt to the King, and ſo get their Privilege continued. The Marſhal de Theſſe who arriv'd from Spain ſome Days ago, has frequent Conferences with the King. 'Tis talk'd the Governours of the Provinces will be oblig'd to raiſe each 2 Regiments, one of Horſe and one of Foot.

From the Harlem Courant, dated July 17.

Paris, July 12. 'Tis advis'd from Spain, that the Detachment of Portugueſe which firſt took Poſſeſſion of Madrid, conſiſted of 600 Horſe and 2 Regiments of Foot, and was commanded by the Conde de St. Vincent. They enter'd that City the 25th paſt; the next Day the Count de Caceres with 400 Horſe, detach'd by King Charles, arriv'd there, and the ſame Day that Prince himſelf made his Entry with 40 Coaches in great State, the People making joyful Acclamations, and was proclaim'd with proper Solemnity.

The Preamble of the Duke of Orleans's Commiſſion from the French King to command his Army in Italy runs thus.

LEWIS by the Grace of God King of France and Navarre, to all who ſhall ſee theſe Preſents Greeting. Having thought fit to give our moſt dear and well beloved Couſin the Duke of Vendome, the general Command of our Armies in Flanders; and it being neceſſary to chooſe a Leader to take upon him in his ſtead the general Command of our Armies in Italy, we have reſolv'd to ſend our moſt dear and moſt intirely beloved Nephew the Duke of Orleans, as well to gratify the ardent Deſire he has long expreſs'd to be at the Head of our Troops, and by ſignalizing his Valour to promote our Glory and the general Good of the State as becauſe we are ſatisfied, that beſides an Elevation of Soul and Sentiments becoming his Grandeur and Birth, he has by Care and Application acquir'd early the Experience and Talents requiſite for commanding Troops, as he has ſufficiently ſhewn in the Command of our Horſe, which he has exerciſ'd with all the Ability of a great Caprain: We have moreover conſider'd that the reſpect the Soldiers have for his Perſon, their Alacrity to ſerve under his Orders, their Deſire to make themſelves known by their Services and to pleaſe him and diſtinguiſh themſelves in his Sight, exciting Emulation in them and animating their Courage and Zeal, every Man will apply himſelf with the greater Earneſtneſs to do his Duty; which cannot but contribute very much to the Succeſs of the Enterprizes of our Army under his Conduct. For theſe Cauſes, &c.

The Preamble of the Duke of Vendome's Commiſſion to command the French Army in Flanders.

LEWIS, &c. Tho' the continual Progreſſes of our Armies in Italy under the Conduct of our moſt intirely belov'd Couſin the Duke of Vendome, ſince the opening of the Campaign of 1702, from which which time we have entrusted him with the Command of our Troops, seem to invite us to leave to him the Care of ending the War: Yet, the immediate necessity of placing at the Head of our Armies in Flanders, 'a Leader that may gain the Confidence of the Officers and Soldiers, and revive in the Troops that resolute and daring Spirit which is so natural to the French Nation; and our Knowledge that no other is so able to answer our Expectation as our said Cousin; have determin'd us to recall him from Italy, to give him the Command of our Armies in the Netherlands; being perswaded his Services will be more advantageous there to us, and that in what Country soever he has the Conduct of the War, he will manage it with no less Glory than he has done in Italy. For these Causes, &c.

From the Paris Gazette, dated July 10.
Dunkirk, July 2. The Marshal de Vauban has been twice to view Newport and the Ground about it. He has set 15000 Pioneers to work to make a Communication between the Lake call'd the Moere and the Canal off Bergue, and to fortify a Camp on a rising Ground, situate between Fort Louis and the lower Town of Dunkirk. There is another Camp of 15000 Men under the Walls of Ypres, 10000 Horse canton'd in the Towns of the County of Artois, and other Bodies encamp'd in several Places, waiting for the Reinforcements that are coming from Germany, and for the Arrival of the Duke of Vendome. Most of the Troops are re-established. The Regiment du Roy of 4 Battalions, which is encamp'd in our Neighbourhood, and which suffer'd more than any other in the Battle, has 3 Battalions complear, and Soldiers return to it daily.

From the Camp at Helchin, July 15. The Army commanded by M. d' Auverquerque march'd from Ostend the 12th Instant, and will join us in this Camp the 17th. The 13th Brigadier Cadogan was sent over the Schelde with a Detachment of about 300 Horse, to mark a Camp near Graniont. The Elector of Bavaria remov'd that Night from Mons to Valenciennes.

Hague, July 16. The King of Prussia is expected to Night at Ho-flaerduke: The States of Holland have nom. nard Deputies to compliment him on his Arrival in this Province, as the States General did on his Arrival on their Frontier. The Deputies of Holland are, the Earl of Portland on the Part of the College of Nobles, M. vander Honert Burgomaster of Dort, M. Wilsch Burgomaster of Amsterdam, and another Person of North Holland. The confederate Army is advanc'd to Helchin towards Touroay, and the Ways are made even for them to march in Battallia: 'Tis believ'd more than one Siege is design'd; 'tis certain at least that the Preparations of Artillery, &c. are very great; for there will be 160 Cannon twenty four Pounders, 40 Mortars, and 50 Howitzers; which will be commodiously convey'd to the Army by Water. The Magistrates of Brussels make Instances that Aeth may be besieg'd because the taking of that Place would cover their City. B. Letters from Prince Eugene's Camp of the 2d of this Month it appears he had then made no Motion: But they tell us his Highness made no manner of Doubt of gaining a Passage over the Adige, and penetrating to Piemont.

Letters from France say the Duke of Vendome had written to Court, to represent that 'twas impossible for him to hinder the Imperialists passing the Adige, and that therefore he had thought best to retire behind the Mincio as being more defensible: Upon which say these Letters Prince Eugene is come over the Adige without any Opposition. They add, that the Duke of Medina Celi was the foremost in giving his Voice for proclaiming King Charles III. at Madrid, which was done the 27th of last Month. The Jewels of the Crown are convey'd from Madrid to Paris: Which is certainly as mean a thing as ever was done. There is a great Insurrection in Xaintonge, and the Court of France is afraid the Descent is a Project form'd on a Correspondence held by some Persons in Holland or England with that Province. The Intendant has written to Court for a strong Body of Troops, without which he despairs of suppressing this Revolt. The Duke of Vendome has also sent Word, that without a great Reinforcement he cannot make Head against Prince Eugene; so that 'tis presum'd the Enemy will find it necessary to raise the Siege of Turin.

Deal, July 7. Her Majesty's Ship the Alborough is arriv'd in the Downes with Advice, that the Garrison of Newport retir'd to Dunkirk at the Approach of our Troops from Ostend, who have taken Possession of the Place.
